

FOUNDING COHORT OUTREACH

SEATING THE FIRST ROOM

The first season cannot be member-invited, because there are no members yet. That makes this the one time MOJO AI Summits invites people directly, and the letter says so plainly rather than hiding it.

THE SEQUENCE

01 Pick the name

Someone whose decision you can name. Not a list, not a title match.

02 Write the why-you

Two sentences, specific to them. The only part that matters.

03 Send the email

Letter attached, email stands on its own.

04 Follow up once

Seven to ten days later. Once. Then stop.

THE ONE RULE

If you cannot name the decision they own, do not send the letter

A team-sent invitation has no peer vouching for it, so specificity is all that separates it from every other event email in the inbox. "A CIO in healthcare" is not specificity. "Eighteen months into an integration and deciding what to do about agents" is.

WHO SIGNS

Each person below has their own copy, already signed. Send under your own name, from your own address.

SIGNER	TITLE
Robert Haldeman	Chief Executive Officer
Scott Schindler	Chief Technology Officer
Jodi Washington	Chief Growth Officer
Ron Bruno	Chief Relationship Officer
Miller Freeman	Director of Partnerships
Angel Mosley	Program Director
Charlie Wildrix	Live Event Manager

Files are named Founding-Invitation-[Name].docx. One blank sits in each signature block, for your email and direct line.

COPY TO SEND

THE EMAIL, AND THE ONE FOLLOW-UP

A cold PDF from an unfamiliar sender often does not get opened. The email has to carry the ask by itself.

FIRST EMAIL

SUBJECT, PICK ONE

A founding seat for [FIRST NAME] · 150 seats, and one should be yours

BODY

[FIRST NAME],

I am [YOUR NAME], [YOUR TITLE] at MOJO AI Summits. We are seating the founding cohort for our first season and I would like one of the 150 seats to be yours.

[ONE SENTENCE ON WHY THEM. THE DECISION THEY OWN, NAMED.]

It is an executive AI network for CxOs and Owners. Nothing is sold in the room, no seat can be bought, and sessions are recorded and published as quarterly intelligence briefs citing contributors by name. Ninety minutes at a time, twelve dates between September and January.

Because we have not launched, this comes from us rather than from a member. That happens once.

Worth fifteen minutes? If it is not for you, say so and I will leave it there.

[YOUR NAME]

FOLLOW-UP, SEVEN TO TEN DAYS LATER

[FIRST NAME],

Following up once on the founding cohort note. Seats are filling ahead of September 4 and I did not want you to miss it by default rather than by choice.

If it is a no, tell me and I will stop. If it is a maybe, I will send the season schedule.

[YOUR NAME]

WHAT NOT TO DO

- Do not follow up twice. The letter says a clean no is welcome. Chasing contradicts it.
- Do not soften the recording line. Someone who joins without understanding it becomes a problem in January, not September.
- Do not send from a shared inbox or a marketing platform. It reads as a campaign.
